

PARENTS

Do you have a concern that your teen needs more than chemical education?

Are you worried your teen's alcohol or drug use may have evolved from experimental to addiction?

Is your teen using heavily, but not aware of how alcohol and drugs are affecting their life and the lives around them?

Looking for a program that might help them figure out if they need treatment?

TEEN INTERVENE

Teen Intervene is a Hazelden created research based, non-confrontational program used to help teens take a look at their chemical use.

Who can refer?

- Parents
- County Diversion
- Police
- Judges
- Probation
- Counselors
- Schools

Using a harm reduction model, teens are guided through activities and questions that get them thinking and engaged in conversation about their use.

Rather than dictating to them what they need to do, this program allows counselors to listen to teens and begin to create doubt in their thought process about the consequences versus the benefits of their use.

Teen Intervene includes:

- Six (6) sessions with a counselor
- Goal setting for reducing and/or quitting chemical use
- One (1) family session

Cost of the entire program is $75-$150

Cost is based on City/Township of residence

Pre-payment is required

Cash • Check • VISA • Mastercard accepted
